MEIRA white paper - A look back at 2019, and the year ahead

In an effort to deliver more benefits to our members and based on increased demand for thought leadership content, we are delighted to launch our new white paper series. During the year, MEIRA will contribute to creating reports and interviews focused on different IR matters. Being the first paper of a new series, we wanted to share a quick summary of what we think have been the major developments and achievements in 2019 for the Investor Relations (IR) community in the Middle East. However, as we look ahead, 2020 seems to be an exciting year for the profession and current trends are going to affect the dynamics of the market. Shareholder activism, passive investment, digitalization and much more is just around the corner.

2020 MEIRA IR Awards - Best Corporate and Best Individual categories - Poll opens in one month

Institutional Investor's 2020 Emerging EMEA Executive Team survey, now fully integrated with Extel, forms the basis of the MEIRA IR Awards. The polling process will run from 2 March to 3 April, 2020. IR winners in the Middle East will be announced at the MEIRA IR awards ceremony, which will take place on 23 September 2020.

In order to prepare your company for the polling process, review your IR executives list before 2 March. To request your personalised link to the CIV ballot, please click on the banner. Remember that only IR Executives that have market-facing roles should be included for the evaluation. The list submitted forms the basis of prepopulated on the ballot used by buy and sell-siders to vote.

Notes from the GM

only just started given MEIRA corporate membership stands at over 100 for the first time. Thank you, a great effort all around. Our narrative for the MEIRA annual report will follow when we will share our review of the year's other highlights and reiterate our plans - not just for another financial year but also for the next few years. Purpose, objectives and strategy, after all, don't generally change from year to year if we are on the right track. And we are. We appreciate your continued support as we build up to another great year of activities for you supported by thought leadership, publications, events, webinars, training and of course, the MEIRA Annual Conference which will be all about, "MEIRA 20/20 Vision: Driving Stakeholder Value", as announced last week. Venue still to be announced so stay posted!

Turning to our calendar of events, the Chapters are all gearing up for their first meetings of the year and on 25 February at the customary webinar time of 12.30 pm for no more than 30-40 minutes, we are delighted to have the company of Amani Korayeim, Director of EMEA, Extel Equity Survey/Institutional Investor Research, the region's longstanding go-to source of market insight. Moreover, we'll take the opportunity to hear how the MEIRA IR Best Practice Awards for 2020 are shaping up, some thoughts around the importance of using such awards to benchmark your own IR performance and to address any questions you may have on this year's awards' process. Whether you win or not, remember, it's more about improving your IR every year. It's also about being part of something bigger, within your own organisations where the process behind awards can galvanise company functions and resources or externally, where at least your target audience can appreciate who you are and what you are setting out to achieve. My advice, go for it, you have nothing to lose!

Catch up soon, I'm sure - do join us for the first of this year's MEIRA webinar series on 25 February and we hope to see you at your next MEIRA Chapter meeting coming your way very soon.

Best wishes,

Team MEIRA
