GCC Earnings Call Sentiment Remained "Bullish" in 1Q 2022

Iridium Advisors, the leading IR consultancy in the Middle East, analyzed 5.9 million words from 1,100 historic Earnings Calls using its proprietary Quant Lens NLP algorithms to investigate how GCC sentiment trends have evolved for the 1Q 2022 earnings cycle.

The report reveals that overall GCC Earnings Call sentiment remains "bullish" and at its highest level since 2019, further improving for the eighth consecutive quarter. However, the report notes that management's "confidence" (a measure of strong or weak language) in presentations has dropped, which may be an early indicator that management teams are becoming more cautious ahead of the changing and uncertain macro-economic environment.
